On ELU, I have to say Work from home is the correct expression, though Work at home is also heard when that same idea is meant. When you work from home, it is only the place of work that changes -- the work still belongs to the company (or whoever); when you work at home, you could be doing just about any work, any one's work, including your own personal work.

word choice - "Work at home" vs. "work from home ...

In fact, the rate of productivity measured by the change in output per hour worked averaged 3.2% per year from 1950 to 1970; dropped to 1.9% per year from 1970 to 1990; and then climbed back to over 2.3% from 1991 to the present, with another modest slowdown after 2001.
