In 1988 Richard Ellmann's acclaimed biography of Oscar Wilde presented this version: 14. With some difficulty he made his way to a café, where he drank absinthe, then walked laboriously back. Wilde said to Claire de Pratz, 'My wallpaper and I are fighting a duel to the death. One or the other of us has to go.'

Je n'ai fait celle-ci plus longue que parce que je n'ai pas eu le loisir de la faire plus courte. Here is one possible modern day translation of Pascal's statement. Note that the term "this" refers to the letter itself. I have made this longer than usual because I have not had time to make it shorter.
